The law firm of Hudson Cook, LLP has expanded its nationwide footprint by adding a new office in the Dallas/Fort Worth metroplex. The office, in downtown Fort Worth, opened on August 16, 2017. This is the firm's first office in Texas and 13th office nationwide.

Partner Hurshell Brown and Curtis Linscott, Of Counsel, will anchor the office, along with Associate Andrea Cottrell. Before joining Hudson Cook, Brown and Cottrell had their own firm of Brown & Cottrell, PLLC, while Linscott most recently worked at Cash America.

"We are excited to be moving into the thriving Texas legal market," said Hudson Cook, LLP chairman Michael Benoit. "The DFW office will help us better serve our existing clients, as well as bring new opportunities to the firm."

Brown began practicing law in the consumer finance industry in 2007 as an in-house attorney for Cash America. Most recently, he served as a managing member of Brown & Cottrell, representing clients operating in the consumer financial services and FinTech industries, including installment lenders, retail installment lenders, payday lenders, pawnbrokers and service providers. Brown assists clients in complying with state and federal consumer financial laws and represents lenders and consumer finance companies with regulatory compliance, due diligence, and developing compliance-focused solutions to business operations for both storefront and online operations. He obtained his JD from the Texas Tech University School of Law in 1997.

Linscott joined Cash America in 1995 as director, associate general counsel, and served as lead counsel for the company and its subsidiaries in real estate acquisition, disposition and leasing transactions, construction matters, franchising, intellectual property, and general corporate matters. Linscott was named general counsel in 2005 and appointed executive vice president in 2006. He established the company's first formal compliance department and built out a robust compliance management program, including developing staff, formal policies and procedures, monitoring and testing programs, and board reporting, all geared toward the complex regulatory compliance environment for the financial services industry. He obtained his JD from the University of Kansas in 1990.
